

BQCIS Supports Global Supply Chain Resilience Accord

BOCIS has officially endorsed the Global Supply Chain Resilience Accord (GSCRA) – a landmark international initiative designed to standardize digital verification, traceability, and crisis response across critical industries.

“Resilience is no longer just a goal – it’s a global responsibility.”

MARCIN DOVREL, CEO OF BQCIS

BQCIS logistics and compliance team at global operations review – October 2025

Under the GSCRA, CEO of BOCIS, “The Accord allows us to align governments, industry, and inspection authorities under a single digital framework.”

MARCIN Marcn Dovrel,
CEO of BQCIS

THE CURRENT LANDSCAPE

The ongoing disruptions in global commerce have underscored the need for more resilient supply chains. BQCIS supports initiatives aimed at increasing the robustness and adaptability of supply networks against various shocks.

Global interconnectedness has brought both efficiency and risk. Recent geopolitical tensions and pandemics have exposed vulnerabilities in international trade routes and logistics.

“Strengthening supply chain security is not just a business priority

PART 3

The Next Steps: Strengthening Supply Chain Networks

BQCIS is advancing a comprehensive action plan focused on bolstering resilience across the supply chain. This strategic roadmap emphasizes cross-sector collaboration, continuous innovation, and investment in digital infrastructure to build robust, adaptable supply chain networks.

“To secure the supply chains of tomorrow, today’s agreements must evolve into action.”

We’re committed to engaging with global stakeholders to enhance security measures and ensure seamless integration of the Global Supply Chain Resilience Accord into daily operations.